

As the angle of the sun changes from summer to winter, the temperature of the double-paned, insulated reading rooms increases due to more exposure to more direct sunlight.